

National Healthcare Supply Chain Week October 4th – 10th, 2020

National Healthcare Supply Chain Week is a time to recognize associates who support patients through the various duties throughout the supply chain.

What better way to demonstrate support than by sending team members to the upcoming annual CAHPMM Educational Conference held this year October 20th-22nd in Shell Beach CA where speakers provide information on relevant topics important to the supply chain and where attendees have an opportunity to network with peers all the time learning and growing in their field.

This is two days packed full of learning and it is our hope you will support your team members through attendance at this year's conference.

Thank you,
Tammy Gonzales
CAHPMM President
